WHAT'S HAPPENING AT BIONIC:

Our Texas team made an appearance at different local events to showcase what we can do for patients. In the two health fairs, we were able to connect with a variety of local businesses and patients raging from just a few years of age to older adults.

In January, Bionic has partnered with Ekso Bionics for a webinar focused on educating our clinical team. During the session, our team was able to learn more about the exoskeleton device and how it could potentially benefit patients with spinal cord injuries. Exoskeleton devices are now covered for traditional Medicare beneficiaries.

"Donna has truly been an asset to our Pembroke Pines and Bionic family. I know that I can count on Donna to complete her tasks in and timely matter and correctly. She has excelled at her position!

The patients love her. She will communicate with the patients and fellow employees after hours to make sure that the patients are taken care of.

EASY DIY CANDY HEART BATH BOMBS

hellocreativefamily.com
By Crystal

These Easy DIY Candy Heart Bath Bombs are cotton candy scented and are just about as sweet as can be! They make a great handmade gift idea!

Ingredients

- 1 cup Baking soda
- 1/2 cup Epsom salt
- 1/2 cup Corn starch
- 1/2 Citric acid
- Red pink or purple food coloring
  Alternatively you can use soap coloring but I like using something that almost everyone has in their home. There is such a small amount of the coloring in the bath bombs that it doesn't effect your skin color when you use it in the bath.
- Cotton Candy Fragrance Oil Or your favorite fragrance oil or essential oil
- 4-6 tbsp Coconut oil Melted
- Valentine's Day themed sprinkles I used heart quins, pink sanding sugar and Valentine's colored nonpareils

You'll also need:

- A mixing bowl
- Spoon
- Silicone heart mold
